

Sally the ant and Blake the bee munch on mountains of food only to feel the bloated repercussions in this fun and imaginative rhyming alphabet book.

Letters are clearly outlined with dots and arrows to show young children how they are written.

The Inkworks Alphabet Book

By Stephen Meakin

An ant called Sally

a a a

munch on carrot cream,

c c c

and a bee called Blake,

b b b

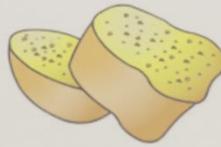

doughnuts and dates.

d d d

Having eggs for breakfast

e e e

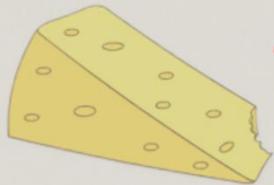

they gorge on garlic bread,

g g g

with cheese and fresh fruit,

f f f

honey and hot soup.

h h h

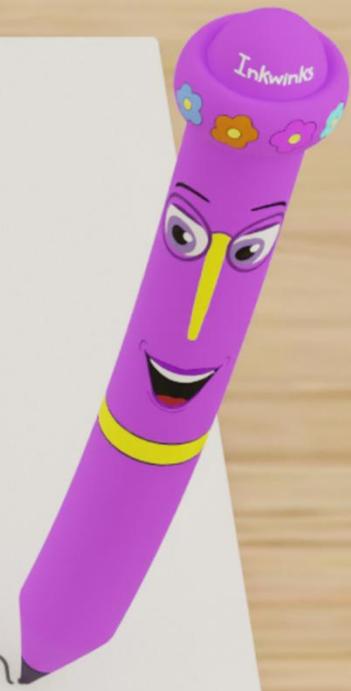

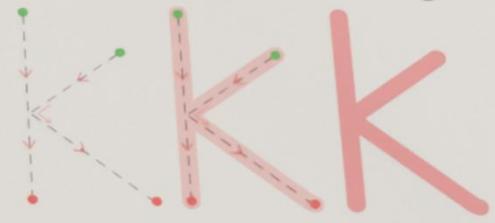

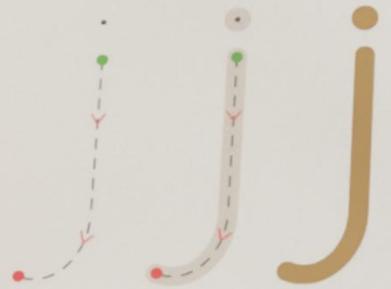

Ice cream is scrummy,

Ketchup is King

so is jelly and jam,

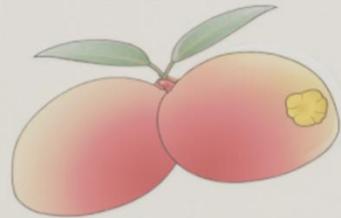

on lettuce leaf and ham

Mangos are amazing,

m m m m

nuts and noodles too,

n n n n

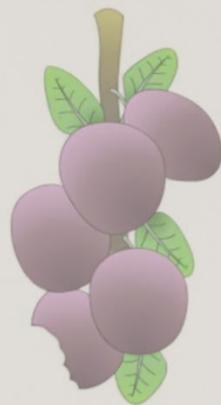

both order oranges with

o o o o

peas and plums for two.

p p p p

Quiet around queenie,

q q q

who adores radish pie, r r r

sugar on sausages

s s s

makes Blake want to fly.

t t t

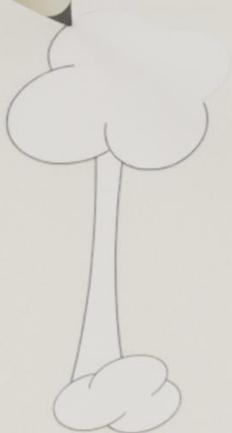

So up Blake goes,

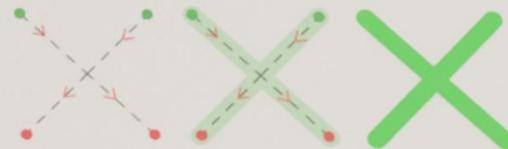

through wispy clouds,

above the violet trees,

an expert amongst bees.

Yawning and sleepy,

y y y

Snoozing on a zucchini,

z z z

“too much food,” they cry.

Sally says... “goodbye!”

All rights reserved and moral rights asserted.
No part of this publication may be reproduced, copied or altered without prior written permission from Inkwinks Productions Ltd.
Published by Inkwinks Productions Ltd 2026

© Copyright : Stephen Meakin

Inkwinks

LET'S MAKE A STORY...!

www.inkwinks.org